

Safety, Occupational Health, and Working Environment Policy

TTW recognizes the importance of safety, which includes Security in Work, occupational health and working environment, safety of the machinery and equipment systems. The manufacturing process and the security of the building, which is an important basis of management. Effective and effective business sustainability under the following actions:

1. The company will provide resources in terms of personnel, time, budget, promotion, motivation, and training. safety inspection and other activities to improve working conditions, environmental conditions, and build a sense of security.

2. The company will prevent accidents and illness in the workplace, as well as inconvenience caused by the company. Employees and stakeholders from the company's operations focus on risk management and control Loss.

3. The company will evaluate the performance of its safety operations and review its safety policies. Occupational health and working environment at least once a year.

4. Safety is the first responsibility in the operation of all employees and all employees must participate in various safety, occupational health, and environmental activities Work.

5. All employees must consider the safety of themselves and others while working.

6. The company will comply with the laws, requirements and international standards relating to safety, Occupational health and working environment as a preliminary standard.

7. identify, evaluate, and control safety, occupational health, and environmental risks in Work, including collecting hazard information that poses such risks.

8. prepare for an incident, be able to cope with a possible accident. Responding to the accident and recovering after the accident effectively to ensure that these events will not affect the company's personnel and assets, both internal and external, and will result in a loss of life.

The company continues its business continuously and as quickly as possible.

In this regard, all management are responsible for promoting and supporting the operation. work in accordance with the policies of safety, occupational health and working environment.